Plumbing Excavation Apprentice

Description

We're growing and seeking a person of high character to join our team of Master Technicians & Mighty Nice People as a Plumbing Excavation Apprentice. No experience is required, but education or experience in the trades will be given preference. In order to be successful in this role, you should be mechanically inclined, willing to perform physical labor on a daily basis (often outside in the elements), and able to tolerate working around sewage. Glamorous...right? But, it's an important job and you will be helping people out in their time of need.

Master Technicians & Mighty Nice People is more than a tagline. It's our culture and we're excited about finding the right person to join our team. This is a different kind of place. We're seeking someone who is humble, hungry, and smart. If you're interested in learning a trade and willing to start out as an assistant/helper, we would like to talk to you right away!

You'll enjoy steady work in a work environment that encourages you to do things the right way rather than rushing through a job just to get to the next one. When time permits, you will have the opportunity to assist and work along side plumbing service technicians as well, providing you the opportunity to learn even more about plumbing.

Qualifications

- Team player and Coachable
- Mechanical skills
- Must pass Google Guaranteed Background Check & Drug Screen
- Ability to operate a boxed service truck with a Class E Drivers License. (New hires must obtain a Class E license within 90 days of start)
